Please note that during this Autumn workshop three dedicated analytic streams will take place simultaneously. Some of these streams have pre-requirements. Please read these prior to writing your application.

Due to the limited number of places for this event, we ask all potential students to outline their motivation for attending this event, how it would improve your career development and demonstrate that you have the prerequisites for the stream you have chosen (or where applicable, will be happy and able to acquire the relevant background knowledge ahead of this workshop).

None of the information we capture during this application process is shared outside the application process.

Please indicate one analysis method out of the three training streams that you want to attend:

Career development statement:

Please provide a personal statement supporting your application outlining your reasons for attending this event, specifically referring to your motivation and how it will develop your career (500 words max).

Statement of prerequisite:

Please provide details of how you match your pre-requisites for the stream you have chosen or how you will obtain these prior to the event (300 words max).

Statement of underrepresented groups:

R4N is committed to creating a network of researchers from multi-disciplinary fields and providing more equal opportunities for all. We particularly welcome applicants from underrepresented groups such as researchers who are neurodivergent, from ethnic minority backgrounds, disabled, or from disadvantaged socioeconomic backgrounds. Other barriers to opportunity not outlined here will also be considered. Please provide a statement of underrepresentation if applicable (word limit 100).

Please send this application form by 9th August to r4n@kcl.ac.uk.

We aim to respond to applicants by Friday, 30th August 2024 at the latest.
